

AAUW - Empowering women since 1881

Willingboro Area NJ Branch presents

Courage, Survival, Beating the Odds

Author: Faleeha Hassan

Faleeha Hassan was born in Najaf, Iraq in 1967. She is a poet, teacher, editor, writer and playwright, who now lives in the United States. She received her master's degree in Arabic literature. She is the first woman to write poetry for children in Iraq, and has published 20 books translated into 14 languages. In 1991, Hassan became the first woman in her home city of Najaf to publish a book of poetry, titled "Because I Am a Girl." Faleeha is known in her home country as the Iraqi "Maya Angelou".
